Camper Guidelines

The Alaska District Children's Camping Program offers many unique experiences. Along with the fun activities listed, camp provides opportunities to form new friendships and grow spiritually. We promote an atmosphere where camp staff and campers support one another with genuine respect. As a camper it is your responsibility to help make camp a positive experience for yourself, fellow campers and camp staff. Our goal is to make camp a spiritual, safe and enjoyable experience for everyone. We ask camper's cooperation and commitment to help meet these goals.

- The camper's attitude will be one of cooperation and respect to all camp staff, campers and camp property.
- All medications will be given to the camp staff at registration, camp personnel will dispense as directed.
- All electronics (game boys, iPods, cell phones, DS, etc.) brought to camp will be held by the director and returned at departure.
- Campers will participate in all activities unless excused by the director.
- Campers must remain with their cabin/team mates and counselors at all times
- Once lights have been turned off for the night, campers may not leave their cabins without counselor permission.

If a camper should fail to cooperate with these guidelines, he/she may be sent home at the sole discretion of the camp director. In such cases, the parent/guardian will be contacted.

I have read and understand the camper guidelines. To the best of my ability, I will follow these guidelines.
